

Change Timelines by Gary Bate

If I was an Intergalactic Traveller (which I am) visiting Earth and I could only say one thing to 'Humanity'; it would be this:

We were born as bright as the genes we inherited from our parents. We all 'picked up' a different deck of cards and nobody told us that we were supposed to discard (excuse the pun) most of them.

Your genes were/are 'inherited mind', indeed, mind programmes; which you've been running...

You have also started new programmes in this life (triggering new genes), because of the influence of other people and generally because of the mind control that is practiced here. If you think this is untrue, then that's evidence of a programme in you.

So your life and your behaviour is programmes you are running, which you've either started in this lifetime or carried forward from past lives as 'unfinished business'.

Suffice to say, you're not supposed to be a chip off the old block, but the 'old block' is what you're supposed to retire in you in order to evolve yourself.

As the Observer, you are supposed to become self-aware enough to identify your programmes and then through self-correction, retire them.

But beware, the process takes you into radical, because enlightenment looks nothing like what you would consider to be normal Human behaviour.

The 'higher' you evolve the more alien you become to the herd mentality. It's always your choice to evolve yourself or not. Most people choose 'not' and thus they are simply recycled to bring forward their unfinished business here.

I was running a programme but I retired it, so I changed and evolved myself somewhat. What programmes are you running that either distort your view or limit you in some way?

Get to know thyself (yourself). We are here to know ourselves...

"Everyone dies" is just a programme that most people believe in. The ones that don't die, you never hear about. They just leave in a different way to you. Either way, you leave...

You had a timeline when you came out of your Mother's womb. Herein is where you can change that timeline. Retiring programmes and hooking up to greater mind is also changing timelines...

Don't judge me by what you think you see because they're your eyes that you're distorted by...

I am consciously breaking down all of my images. Are you doing that?

You cannot evolve yourself on your terms because your terms are your programmes...

You're not going to get this from your guru or self-proclaimed wise mystic, because they're running programmes and they're never going to teach you to retire yours because they want you to be a part of theirs! Where would they be without you?
