

Destiny by Gary Bate

Unless a traumatic emotional event occurs at the time of your death (which will bind you here), your destiny is to go to the Light and be re-incarnated again. People go to the Light because they're frightened of the Darkness.

It's a bit embarrassing really, but it's just how things are. I've known my Mother's parents twice in this life, once as my grandparents and secondly as my 2 offspring. The journey of the Soul continues until the Soul owns it all as wisdom...

Can we intervene in this process for other people? No, we can only change our own destiny. People only hear what they're ready to hear and even then they can disbelieve anything they want.

To change your destiny, you must either Ascend or go to the Darkness. Turning away from the Light denies its angels the meal they're waiting for. The idea that your raw emotion is not important to you and thus it's righteous to strip it from you, is poppycock. Your raw emotion is what you are to own as wisdom in your Soul and not what you are supposed to regenerate lifetime after lifetime! The angels in the Light do you a great disservice and they keep you on the wheel of ignorance.

This planet is the lowest frequency that exists – the programming is so heavy here. You are programmed to age and die because that's how you've been programmed to think. You celebrate your ageing every year; it's all part of the programming...

Waking up is not waking up to the actions of tyrants and marching on the streets for what you believe to be freedom. Waking up is waking up to what I've just written!

If tyrants successfully kill your body prematurely, why does that matter? If you're going to die anyway, what does it matter if you are in your body for 50 years or 100 years? Life is eternal, so time spent in forms is irrelevant.

The gurus have got it wrong. They don't teach people how to ascend; they only teach their flocks how to meditate, then they die just like their forefathers.

So we are here to truly wake up – to break with the heavy conditioning, to break with the heavy programming. We are here to pursue another option and to know our destiny whether we ascend or not. We are not here to continue to be victims to cowards who feast on our experiences in their Light.

Humanity lives exclusively in the lower consciousness of the first 3 chakras. Advanced civilisations live exclusively in the consciousness of the higher 4 chakras. The only way to join the advanced is to retire (close) the lower and thereby gravitate to the higher. I have just described ascension.*

We are all mirrors to each other and God is the perfect mirror. When we only see ourselves in God then we are Christs. We judge the thought and God IS the thought. The Father and Mother is unconditional love because there's no judgment coming from the perfect mirror; it's a complete allowance. We are to be as God is – to allow ourselves to be and to allow other people to be.

God looks at life as it's just the way it is. Can we look at life in the same way and stop all of our interfering? Yes we can.

All of the answers you could ever want can be found in Christ consciousness ~ Gary Bate.

*Obviously this is my analytical understanding as we can't be certain about anything that we have never experienced. Knowing comes from actual experience and not philosophy.
