

Everyone is Equal by Gary Bate

You will probably disagree with my title, but I will argue that your opinion is the essence of what is the biggest problem on this planet – the mental aberration of the inequality mindset.

Social strata, class and caste systems are all embedded in global consciousness, yet God never intended it to be so. Individuals love the feeling of superiority and the thought of being better than others. And others like to suffer from feelings of inferiority and thoughts of being 'less than'.

This common mental aberration coupled with 'competitive heads' is why planet Earth is in dire straights as I write.

One day before days were created, God (the source of all life) woke up and consciousness was born. It was a single light floating upon an endless sea of darkness. It couldn't see itself and through its contemplation of that, it expanded itself by duplicating itself. This cloning process gave God the perfect reflection in the many gods born thereof. The mandate was only ever to 'make of me what you will' or thoughts inline with that. Thus we were all born at the same time and we are all equal.

So when you fight you are fighting with yourself. For every winner there is at least one loser – which one are you? You're both. Where there's tyranny there's victimisation. What goes around comes around. There is no effect without a cause.

Mental health (the lack of it) is just this incorrect thinking. How can a person have self-esteem when they have the incorrect identity?

If everyone on this planet read my material (or just this one page) this World would change for the better overnight.

Accepting your own equality with all others not only gives you self-respect, it motivates you to be kind and generous with others. A loving smile costs nothing. This is the starting point for self-love.

God is in Tyson Fury and Deontay Wilder as well as you and me. God is also in the most insane tyrants and those enduring the worst victimisation. What does God not know?

Well, God won't stop the drama, because it's all of his beloveds playing in it. Life is a continuum, so the death of any individual has no consequence for God. All are loved into life and that is never-ending. So what should we do, if anything?

We should treat everyone equally and with respect. People are allowed to believe whatsoever they want and it is not our job to try and convince them otherwise. Simply allow them to be.

History is repeating itself and we are witnessing it, albeit that many are still wearing rose-tinted glasses! The governing hierarchy here are still the Nazis (they were behind Hitler) and the Jews are still suffering (now with the vaccines). The difference now is we are all classed as Jews in the eyes of the Zionists.

So we bear witness to unfolding events and we hope that those wearing rose-tinted glasses, take them off and join us in rebelling against those intent on totalitarian control.

Let me be clear here – the tyrants have started this fight with us (we never asked for it), but we're going to finish it once and for all time. As many of us die, many will wake up to the real cause of those deaths; then the tyrants will be running for their lives ~ Gary Bate. www.whatstress.com
