

Occasionally in history you get one who makes it out of here and never comes back! There's obviously a good reason why they never come back. Apart from the ones you never hear about, the one in our most recent history is Jesus (Yeshua). He is immaculate because he exemplifies God's love. Apparently (whilst nailed to a wooden cross), he loved the soldier who stabbed him. Could you do that?

To understand God's love, just look at this World – God has allowed it all to be just how it is. God never interferes in any way and I guess that's the best hint I can give you.

This World is run by a small group of people who are called Zionists. These people control both East and West. They play the game of 'sides' (divide to conquer) because it always works on the gullible masses. For instance, they make out that Russia is the enemy and it works because people conveniently forget that Putin is good friends with the Bush family.

The whole World is a stage and the puppet masters are most definitely in control. They make you believe they're concerned about the environment, but they continue to decimate the great rain forests and their chemplanes continue their sorties overhead. The masses are fools because they are duped time and time again. The elite have simply monetized their own ideal.

So what can you do to help other people? Nothing! I write for the odd person who reads my material, but we're only talking a handful!

Here's the paradox:

You cannot see in another person what doesn't exist in you, whether you've retired that aspect in you or not. So to not love someone else because they don't think like you, makes you a tyrant too.

Like Yeshua apparently did, you are to love the tyrants who are trying to enslave you and kill you. Love is the answer, apparently.

Is there an end to it? No. There's no last waltz of the tyrants and there's no battle in the heavens (the prophesised 12 days of Light). These are just stories to give you false hope.

So what can you do? You can't save anyone (save them from what?). You can't change the World (change it to your ideal – you tyrant!). You can't stop your loved ones from dying. You can't stop yourself from dying. Or can you?

Most people won't even wake up in this life – it's a convenient tragedy for the elite and their brand of socialism (One World Order). The play continues whilst there's tyrants and victims here and that's been the way it's been for thousands of years...

You are where you've always been and where you will always be – just you and your mind. Therein is the only place to work. That is called the Great Work.

You can try to imagine a greater future for yourself, but if you do, you risk more trips into fantasy land. Or you can try to be calm, relaxed, patient and non-judgmental. Or you can continue to play the emotional games of tyrants and victims and frequent visits to fantasy land. Your choice.

My black German Shepherd (Lucy) is lying next to me, snoring in blissful sleep, as I'm writing this. I have found my solace in nature. My motivation for writing has never changed; it's just to invoke deeper thought in you, which will always expand you – Gary Bate. www.whatstress.com