

I want to apologise to some of you because I assumed you'd be interested in my material, so I included you in my mailings. I was wrong to do that.

It is a mystery to me, how people cannot be interested in their own growth, evolution and the truth. I have had to concede that that is just how it is.

Many struggle with the truth of reincarnation because they are running the Saviour programme. They think we all die and Jesus or his Mother will be there for them to take them to Heaven. I've had to concede that it's not my responsibility to try and break anybody's illusionary bubble.

So it is that we live for emotion (our loved ones) and we return as babies to our own lineage, which includes our brothers/sisters and their offspring; indeed, anyone/where in the family genetic pool.

I don't want to ever again be some woman's baby and be born to this World or any World like it. That is not my path towards joy and it doesn't offer me any personal growth for my Soul. I accept that you're different to me, in how you see things and what you aspire to. I honour that about you.

Further, I know that if I live by time (the program here) I die by it, as my waters of life run out. I must somehow contain it by realising the illusion of it. And it is an illusion because science has proven the existence of parallel Worlds, which occupy the same space as this World but exist at slightly different frequencies (frequency is a modulation of time). Imagine how much is really going on in your lounge!

So you see, we all have a tremendous opportunity in this lifetime. We now know that these other World's exist at slightly higher frequencies (more loving mindsets) and we can morph to them if only we let go of what holds us here. Therein is both the opportunity and the challenge...

Just because your family is drenched in illusion doesn't mean you have to be. I know what a big deal breaking the mold is. But if you live for other people, you die for them and you return here, back in nappies. Be honest – do you really want that? I never want to be that ignorant again...

I'm honing in on this because (rightly or wrongly) I think everyone needs to at least look at it. It's a fact that ignorance begets ignorance. I'm going to lose some friends for saying this, but I believe someone has to say it – “playing happy families and celebrating each others birthdays, is celebrating shared ignorance and reincarnation!” And yes, I've done it too!!

If we don't stop the rot the rot continues...

It's time we all grew up and accepted that we've all been lied to. Our lives and our futures are by our own designs (there are no saviours!). Our politicians are corrupt and they're minions who work for the King and his buddies in the WEF. Their intention is to take your power and keep you emotional. The future here is 15 minute cities and total global control via their use of Artificial Intelligence.

Unless we all start to wake up and say NO, we're doomed. Next weeks C of E chorus will be a good barometer of where we're at – do keenly observe.

What can YOU do? Save yourself! Please don't go down with the sinking ship. You can join the resistance (Alex Jones, David Icke, Tucker Carlson to name a few). Love is knowledge and control is the withholding of knowledge. You can gain in knowledge and thus let go emotionally. Of course, it's your choice, your life and your destiny. I have given you what I know ~ Gary Bate.

<https://www.whatstress.com/>