

Everyone in your life is but a temporary visitor to it. How long they stay is immaterial because all will eventually leave or you'll leave them.

We are all 'alone' in never-ending Spiritual journeys of self-discovery and self-exploration. The dream continues beyond the expiration of this lifetime and thus we are wise to feed that dream of a new life, for one day soon we'll be in it...

How would you like your new life to be? Whereupon might you live? Will it be a loving, organic environment? Might you be born into an advanced civilisation and in due course have your own family? What vocation might you pursue?

It is incorrect for us to assume that this backward planet is the only place that harbours life forms. For if that were the case, the only future 'physical' life would be the Human Hybrid, which is now emerging here. The idea of being an android, riding around in a computer car, doesn't appeal to me.

I'd say the Milky Way is teeming with life and I'd also say the same about the Andromeda galaxy. And what about the Pleiades (the Seven Sisters) – is there life there? I don't doubt it! Then of course there's Alpha Centauri – what kind of aliens live there?

What an honour it will be to be alien to the human android. After all, who on earth would want to live in such a controlled, artificial way?

You can't 'hang on' to what you've got because your 'hanging on' is causing your 'waters of life' to run out and thus it's just a matter of time before all is taken from you.

If you don't dream and design your future, you will become prey to the 'energy vampires' and your destiny will be the controlled, artificial one. Please don't say I didn't tell you...

As you are an eternal being, you always have a future; so it's best to have a plan (a sketch if you like) for what that future will look like. No plan makes you a victim of destiny. So let's re-cap and look at your options when your life in this crazy World expires:

You pop out of your body and you are still 'aware' yet your awareness is now 'altered' (I know this from my many out-of-body experiences). Your Soul has been pulled out of your body (that's what death is) by your Spirit and you (energy & consciousness) are always aware. You can move super fast now as you don't have a physical body to anchor you anywhere.

The Light beckons you with its false love (it's pulling on your emotions). If you're still 'hanging on' you will go to it and be recycled back to the artificial, tech, dystopian, nightmare, with no memory!

If you're wise you'll turn your back on it and stay where you are for the time being. Now it's time to explore those other galaxies and star clusters – think it and you are there! How do they live? Do you want to be one of them? Maybe you'll check out more places before you decide upon your new life.

What about those massive Motherships that the little Scouts move in and out of? What's life like on board? Take a look...do you want to learn under their tutelage?

What about the space between the planets and the ships – the backdrop of forever - the darkness? You can go there is you like – there's nothing to fear. What's that faint light in the distance?

Your freedom (Free Spirit) is important to me because I love you and I want the very best for you...
