

Trip in the Light fantastic by Gary Bate

If it's true and the 'Light' presents itself to us after death, then logically we have 3 options:

1. Turn your back on it, because you're still emotionally attached to this World, and stay where you are emotionally attached to (haunt as a ghost).
2. Go to it and believe that it is God talking to you and thus continue your illusionary life..
3. Pass through it because you know that it is fake and release yourself from the Light Trap.

The other option you've got is to deal with the dilemma now. If Quantum Physics is correct and 'all times exist simultaneously in the now moment' then that means you're also in the Light right now!

The idea that we all co-exist in other frequencies of the light spectrum is simply mind blowing..

The Light is a certain level (quality) of consciousness and it's all about control and the emotions that are born from that. So if that is your consciousness that is also your destiny. You can only ever go to where you are a conscious match to because you always have to take you with you..

To bypass the Light (evolve) involves a shift in your attitude, to where you no longer seek to control anyone (including all the subtleties of that) and thus the associated emotions subside. There's more – because your reality is attracted to your 'lowest' point of energy (consciousness).

We are where we are because here is what we are consciously equal to. The Light is tailor-made for us because it is the SAME consciousness as here. We have been going to the Light and coming back here for eons. We will continue revolving through those doors until we change our attitudes..

There are entities in the Light who control it. There's a hierarchy there. They all sustain themselves energetically by feeding upon our highly charged emotional energy. That is their food and their only interest is sustenance. They manipulate us 'energetically' to create their food source..

So what do the 'agents' (critters) in the Light try (successfully) to get you to do to keep you as their energetic food source? They try to get you to fire your body chemically – fire it emotionally and fire it sexually. They do this through your mind. If you ignore their images in your mind and you resist their temptations; they lose power over you.

A sign that they're losing the battle is when you have sexual dreams, which is them trying to get you to fire sexually. Don't give in. You're not having some wonderful erotic time in a parallel universe; you're being manipulated by the critters in the Light!

Natural Evolution = Emotional Mastery.

Why firing your body chemically or not, should be a serious consideration:

1. The critters (agents) in the Light feed upon your highly charged energy and drain you.
2. Your body has a finite amount of energy so stopping the firing extends your life.

Now you see the Spiritual battle to move beyond reincarnation. It's a battle in your mind. They will throw the kitchen sink at you to get you to fire chemically, because that's how they own you as their source of fodder. You break their hold over you when you permanently stop reacting (stop firing).

I hope you understand this and it becomes your truth too ~ Gary Bate. <https://whatstress.com/>
