

Wisdom is the Hunter By Gary Bate

Do you know how powerful a scientific statement like The Observer affects Reality is? What about the statement – Consciousness is Everything? Do these seemingly unrelated statements mean anything to you in the context of your life? Probably not.

Here's a couple of bits I just got from google:

It has been suggested that the locality of information transfer in quantum entanglement indicates that reality is subjective, meaning that there is an innate inseparability between the physical system and the conscious mind of the observer.

Summary: One of the most bizarre premises of quantum theory, which has long fascinated philosophers and physicists alike, states that by the very act of watching, the observer affects the observed reality.

This is really powerful because it means we can change reality with our minds and a person who does this is called a master. That is what a master is.

If anyone is so stupid to tell you that they are a master, your retort should be – prove it! A real master can always prove it...

Why is this science (quantum physics) so important? Because if one can instantaneously change reality, one is immortal (where do you draw the line?)!

Quantum physics says we can change water to wine, by seeing wine where there's water. So why don't we all do that today? Because we think we've got better things to do...

It clearly takes a very powerful mind to instantaneously alter reality. The focus would need to be intense (the ability to see what's not apparently there) and one would need enough personal energy and intent to affect the structure of mass (coagulated consciousness).

We don't do it because we don't have the focus on it and we don't have enough personal energy. We have placed our energy elsewhere – on other people, places, things, work, activities and everything we think is so much more important than self. We have made a habit of giving our power away...

Mastership is firstly taking your power back and most of that is wrapped up emotionally. A master in the making is hunting down his/her energy and bringing it home. The discord you experience between your thinking and your life, is due to your energy being dissipated widely.

It's not about taking other people's energy; it's about taking your own back. Wisdom is the Hunter.

My motivation in writing is just to make you think more deeply, because when you do so, you expand yourself immeasurably.

Here's a piece you may like - it's about the 'miracles' of Yeshua Ben Joseph. I hope it tantalises you as much as it did me – enjoy! <https://www.ramtha.com/content/pdf/teachings/yeshua.pdf>

This really is cutting-edge enlightenment. This really is the crest of personal development. Imagine being able to defy reality and time travel to wherever you have the mind to go ~ Gary Bate.

<https://www.whatstress.com/>